Disclaimer: Millerstreet Photography will make every effort to capture as many unique and exacting photos of the event listed above as possible. Photography is a form of art, and this is a highly subjective field of creativity and expression. It is entirely possible that certain images will not particularly stand out, due in fact to the very nature of human interaction, facial expressions, and/or body position, all of which are almost always in constant and sometimes unpredictable movement. Millerstreet Photography does not offer refunds should the client feel that the images captured do not meet their certain expectations. All digital negatives and copyright ownership are the sole property of Millerstreet Photography.
